IN COLD BLOOD

Double Murder and Suicide Near Des Moines.

James Cochran Slays His Divorced Wife and Her Lover.

HE ENDS THE TRAGEDY BY BLOWING HIS HEAD OFF.

Terrible Vengeance of a Discarded Husband—Touching Scene at the Inquest—Mail Wagon Robbed of a Pouch of Valuable Letters—Charges of Fraud in Philadelphia—Boy Thrown Under a Train—Crimes.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 21.—Three persons are slain here in this city to-day, the result of one of the most terrible triple crimes ever committed in this section of the West. About 10 o'clock last night James Cochran, a well-known farmer living five miles from this city, killed his wife, her lover, W. T. Davis, and then turning the shotgun upon himself, blew his brains out. The only witness to even a part of the tragedy is a young lady, whose reason is almost dethroned by the fearful scenes she has witnessed in Sheibina. She tells us that when she left Sheibina, took her and cared for and educated her. Reaching womanhood she charges he reached manhood, which he did not do, and she is dying from the effects. She has two sisters living in Sheibina; she tells a most touching story. She adds that neither folks nor Cochran's known friends or Officers are trying to arrest Cochran who is supposed to be working on the Great Northern Railroad.

FORSAKEN AND DYING.

ISA RENNER LEFT TO DIE BY HER FOSTER FATHER AND SEDUCER.

AUSTIN, Tex., April 21.—Isa Renner, an intelligent woman about 22 years old, is dying here to-day in a cheap boarding-house. She first came here with a man named G. J. Cranmer and passed for his wife. She is dying from the effects of malpractice and has made a confession. She states she is left an orphan, and Cranmer, who lived in Sheibina, took her and cared for and educated her. Reaching womanhood she charges he reached manhood, which he did not do, and she is dying from the effects. She has two sisters living in Sheibina; she tells a most touching story. She adds that neither folks nor Cochran's known friends or Officers are trying to arrest Cochran who is supposed to be working on the Great Northern Railroad.

SENTENCED TO HANG.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 21.—Judge Wall this morning passed sentence of death on Buck Dickerson and Tom Davis, the two negroes found guilty yesterday of murder in the first degree at the trial of their master, Deitsch, a new peddler at Hickman, last December. The date for the date of hanging at 10 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, May 14. This will be the first hanging ever had in this county.

ROBBED A MAIL WAGON.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., April 21.—Thieves stole a mail pouch containing $50,000 in cash, drafts and other papers, from a wagon yesterday which conveys the mail to passenger train No. 8, eastbound, on the Northern Pacific. The police have made several arrests, but the mail pouch has not yet been recovered.

S. J. JOSEPH, Mo., April 21.—Willie Harding, aged 15, was cut to pieces last night near the French Street Station by a moving freight train. At the instant to-day two of the boy's companions testified that he had been assisted earlier in the day by John Hill, another boy. Hill has disappeared, but the officers are searching for him.

CREATED A SENSATION.

HAMILTON, Ontario, April 21.—A sensation has been created here by the discovery that the wife of James Balfour, a leading architect, has been carrying on an intrigue with a stable boy employed by the family. Mrs. Balfour has gone to relatives in Chicago after turning over all her property in trust for her five young children.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 21.—Joseph A. Dennis, alias S. S. Lindsay & Co., has been arrested in Camden charged with fraudulently using the mails for sending out bogus insurance policies. The prisoner admitted having sent a policy to May Brown, a graduate. The prisoner was held for further hearing.

O'BRIEN ESCAPES.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 21.—O'Brien, the bungo boy, who was being taken to the penitentiary to serve ten years for swindling Mr. Peck of this city out of $10,000, escaped from officers on the way to-day.

CRIME BREVITIES.

J. Niedlinger's jewelry and pawn shop at Meridian, Miss., was robbed yesterday of $1,000 worth of gold and silver. The robber, a negro who gave his name as John White, shot and killed Jim Logan, another negro who was assisting to make the arrest. He was captured and most of the stolen goods found buried.

A dispatch from Baltimore, Md., states that the two women in the adjoining room, frightened by the shot and exclamation (for Mrs. Cochran at least knew two well who did the shooting), rushed through the front room and through a large suite of the hall, and out into the yard with the shotgun passed around the house and fired at them. The shot was futile. The girl, barefooted and bareheaded, started southeast across the field to the poor house, while Mrs. Cochran ran south in the direction of her father's house, which lies south of the Taylerville road. Cochran pursued and overtook her near the gateheads to the road.

SHOOTING FOR MURDER.

The girl heard Mrs. Cochran begging for mercy. She heard a man's voice exclaim: "It's no use to beg this time. I'll bust your head."

Then she heard two more shots and a cry of pain that was all. She roused the people at the poor farm and they started on a tour of investigation. They were in the party the overseer, Dr. Keeble, Dr. J. H. Stalford, E. G. Beeson, Harry Hill and G. A. Stalford, Coronor Griffith, Marshal Johnson, Officers Hoblett and Farley started for Sayerville, N. J., about noon. Half an hour before that a Post-Dispatch correspondent with a driver acquainted with the road and a good team was on the way.

At a point on the Taylerville road directly south of Conover's farm there is a narrow entrance through the fence, that is state, the passage of teams through this entrance during the wet weather has hollowed out a pool of mud. Lying just outside the fence, her head alongside of the mud, was the body of Mrs. Cochran. Her hair was thrown away from the feet. The upper portion of the dress was burned off. It was on fire when she was first found, showing, with the powder burns on her body, that the fatal shot had been fired at close range. A ghastly wound in the left breast showed too plainly the terrible nature of the crime. Two missing fingers from the right hand showed that she stood in an attitude of supplication, her hand on her breast, imploring mercy when the hardened wretch fired the gun. Her hair was bound up in a knot. Just within the gate was a pool of blood, and near it were two exploded shells from the shotgun. The murderer had evidently reloaded his gun to be prepared for any foot to take his own miserable life inside the fence and marks on the ground indicated that it was there the unfortunate woman fell, and in death agony, writing from the effects of a mortal blow, with the clothing searing her flesh crawled around the post to the place where she expired.

AN AWFUL SCENE.

It was an awful scene, one which will not be obliterated from the memory of bystanders for years; if ever. Officer Hoblett had seen it.

Just then the father of the dead woman, the venerable Isaiah Howard, whose long life has been passed on his farm, near there, arrived. He was weak and worn, and his son, Howard. At first he controlled his feelings well.

"It is Clara," he said. Then the jury was ranged in the road near the body. The crowd gathered about; overhead was all darkness and the rain fell in silence. The rain was falling in sheets, and the pale lights reflected on the pale face and blonde hair of the dead. The mourners uncovered their heads and raised each other's right hands in a solemn ceremony. Grant administered the oath. "To find by what means the person here lying dead before you, the wife of the deceased, got into the house, and the father, leaning on the fence, broke down, great sobs shook his form, and while the oath to the jurors was completed, the men who had secured the abatement, unable to control themselves at such a solemn moment. Tenderly the remains of the dead were carried into the house.

Here she was found in the little room; two shotgun wads by his side showed that he had been shot in the head. The broken window showed the course of the deadly messenger. Davis was apparently a rather good-looking man, he was well formed, heavily built, and about 5 ft. 11 inches tall. He was neatly dressed and wore a neglige shirt, with a tie. His hair was dark, while his eyes were blue and his complexion yellowish brown. His body was thin, blonde.

PARIS, April 21.—The outlook for May Day is now on a new aspect to-day, with a promise of affording Anarchist and other lawless characters an opportunity to make trouble. The police threaten to strike. The Die Neuen Freien Siecle in its issue of to-day publishes a proclamation signed by a number of policemen, in which they detail at length their grievances and threaten to strike on the eve of May Day unless their wages are increased. The Anarchists are in high glee at this development, and some of the more enthusiastic of them claim that it would take little argument to induce many of the workers to join in the strike. It is hard to believe that any troupe will occur with the police; on the contrary, it is thought that some of the matters of which they complain will be corrected and that they will render their usual good services on May Day if they are called upon to suppress disturbances.

In an event of apprehension need be felt, for the Government has arranged for the presence of a military force connected with the celebration. A final meeting of this body was held to-day, and all the arrangements were completed for making the affair a grand success.

SPAIN'S COLUMBIAN ANNIVERSARY.

MADRID, April 21.—Preparations for a proper observance of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus are going forward. The work of the new reconstruction of the ministry have all been returned. It is roughly estimated that the Government will have a majority of two to one. Of the thirty-six labor candidates eleven were elected, of whom only five are workmen. The opponents of the one man, one vote principle have largely increased their strength, the returns showing the election of fifty supporters and forty-five opponents of the principle.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 21.—Standing room in the hall was at a premium when at 10:30 o'clock State Chairman Taggart requested the Indiana State Democratic Convention to come to order. The balconies and galleries were profusely decorated with bunting, while above the footlights, peeping out from between the stars and stripes, were small framed lithographs of Cleveland, Hendricks and Gray, the latter being in the center, directly above the head of the presiding officer. As something of an innovation no divine was asked to lead in prayer, ex-Senator Smith of Welsh being called on to perform this duty. The convention decided with a roar that all resolutions should be turned in to the committee without reading aloud, and thus done, the venerable David Turples was presented. When the hearty greeting that was accorded him by his colleagues, he delivered the following address:

TURPLES'S ADDRESS.

MY FELLOW CITIZENS.—The time is earnest. The duties of the day and the hour are grave, serious and important. This convention, like all others, is called for the different state offices to be filled by election in November next, but also the members of the Democratic party and to take such action as may be most conducive to those interests and to the public welfare.

This convention, therefore, among other things, must absolute freedom, and equality of citizens in the several states, the condemnation and overthrow of all forceful and despotic governments, and the establishment of a peaceful and orderly government.

SNOW IN AUSTRIA.

VIENNA, April 21.—The weather is very cold throughout Austria. Snow storms are frequent in that part of the country between Trieste and Baden. The mountains are covered with snow in the Tyrol, and other places situated on the lake of Constance are snowbound. Traffic on railroads is impeded and telegraphic communication is interrupted.

The roads in the mountains of the Alps are closed, and the passes are closed, and the traffic is stopped.

RUSSIAN RELIEF.

REPORT ON THE PROGRESS OF THE WORK BY MINISTER SMITH.

BERLIN, April 21.—Mr. Chas. Emery Smith, the United States Minister to Russia, who is returning to America, has left this city, where he arrived a few days ago, en route for New York. Prior to his departure he was seen by a representative of the Associated Press and questioned regarding the Jewish question and the famine situation in Russia. Mr. Smith said that there was a prospect of a Jewish emigration from Russia during the coming summer, although the prohibition of the entry of the Jews into Prussia would tend to check such emigration.

WITH A BRICK.

John J. Bailey's Skull Crushed in an Alley Fight.

THE TRAGEDY FOLLOWED A TOUGH NORTH ST. LOUIS "MUSICAL."

Its Victim Allowed to Die Unattended and Alone After Being Taken Into an Adjoining House—A Woman's Story Led to the Arrest of Two Men—Baker Claims to Have Acted in Self Defense—Details of the Crime.

This morning about 3 o'clock, as the wind-up of a social party at No. 1514 North Ninth street, John J. Bailey was struck in the head with a brick in the alley adjoining No. 1512 North Ninth street. He staggered or was led into the latter house, and there lay down on lounge in the front room, the family going to bed and leaving him there unattended. At 8 o'clock this morning a neighbor dropping into the house "found" Bailey still on the lounge, but stiff and cold in death. How long he had been dead no one, apparently, knew. As to the identity of the man responsible for the killing, the police have a well-defined opinion, and believe that they will have no trouble either in finding the supposedly guilty party or in procuring stronger evidence of his responsibility for John Bailey's death.

At No. 1512 North Ninth street lives Mrs. St. Louis Gibbons. Next door, at No. 1514, lives Mrs. Fitzgibbons' daughter, Mrs. Charles Boeger, with her husband. Just back of these two houses is the notorious "Lowry's row," a particularly hard locality, known to the police as the scene of almost constant shooting. Late night, Mrs. Boeger had a little party at their house at which there was no dancing, but plenty of singing and unlimited beer. Among those present were John J. Bailey, now dead at the Morgue, who was a man about 27 years old, single, living with his three sisters, Mrs. Dalton, at Seventh and Robert street, Carondelet, and employed at the office of the South St. Louis Express Co. at Sixth and Market streets; Frank J. Lounds or Launze, 24 years old, single, living in the same Carondelet neighborhood as Bailey; Henry Baker, son of John B. O'Meara, living on St. Louis and Jefferson avenues; Martin Hynes, known to the Fourth District police, and Mrs. Lena Caulfield, living at No. 1228 North Ninth street. The party at Mrs. Boeger's broke up just before 8 o'clock this morning and, according to stories told, the trouble leading in the killing of Bailey began immediately thereafter in the alley running east and west next to Mrs. Fitzgibbons' place.

MARY E. LEWIS'S STORY.

Mrs. Lena Caulfield is the only eye-witness to the trouble in the alley who has yet been found. She told her story to a Post-Dispatch reporter this morning, as follows:

"I am the only eye-witness to the killing of Mr. Boeger's. There had been no trouble, but when I reached the alley south of that house seven or eight o'clock this morning, the men were John Bailey, Frank Launze, Henry Baker, Martin Hynes, and may be others whom I did not see. I stopped, and in a minute or two more, John B. O'Meara and Baker in the group, all the others leaving the alley. I could not tell what the quarrel was about. Frank Launze was right at my side, and Henry Baker was somewhere behind me. Suddenly I saw a brick go through the air and strike Bailey in the head. He fell, and began crying, 'My God, I am hurt.' Frank Launze did not throw the brick, or I would have seen him do it. Charles Boeger heard the shot and ran out of his house and picked Bailey up. He and I walked with Bailey into Mrs. Fitzgibbons' house. Bailey lay down on the lounge. I then left and went home. Just before 8 o'clock this morning I went to Mrs. Fitzgibbons' house again. Nobody was up. I saw Frank Launze, who had come to see him. I spoke and laid my hand on his face. He was dead. I ran into Mrs. Fitzgibbons' room and woke her, calling out: 'Get up, Mrs. Boeger, that man is dead. What will we do?'

STORIES OF OTHERS INVOLVED.

Mrs. St. Louis Gibbons, in the Post-Dispatch reporter, that she had heard Bailey's head several times last night and saw him last about 5 o'clock this morning. She had no idea who had struck him. She did not state who had struck him with the brick. She had notified Officer Peters on that beat as soon as she found him. She had picked Bailey up. He and I walked with Bailey into Mrs. Fitzgibbons' house. Bailey lay down on the lounge. I then left and went home. Just before 8 o'clock this morning I went to Mrs. Fitzgibbons' house again. Nobody was up. I saw Frank Launze, who had come to see him. I spoke and laid my hand on his face. He was dead. I ran into Mrs. Fitzgibbons' room and woke her, calling out:

"Get up, Mrs. Boeger, that man is dead. What will we do?"

HONORABLE MENTION.

The wound causing Bailey's death was a deep gash in the back of the head, just above and behind the ear, about one-half inch wide and one-half inch in length. Bailey's body was identified by John Brady, who lives at 921 North Twenty-first street, and who stated that he had originally reported him when he came up from Carondelet. Brady said that Bailey had heart disease and that several attacks of rheumatism had caused him to be lame. The latter is described as being about 25 years old, stout-built, with dark hair and mustache. Launze is described as being about 24 years old, slender, light hair, fair complexion, smooth face, and dressed in a dark sack coat and pants and slouched in a dark sack coat and pants and slouched.

BAKER ARRESTED AND CONFESES.

Henry Baker and Frank Launze were arrested yesterday in connection with the killing of Bailey. Baker is locked up at the Fourth District Station and Launze at the Cascades. Baker admits having hit Bailey with a brick or stone, but claims that it was done in self-defense.

ONLY ONE SUCH IN TOWN.

The best laid plans often go amiss and for the first time on record the infallible "want ad" has missed fire. George McManus, manager of the Grand Opera House, and Manager McKee of the Templeton Hotel, announced yesterday that a broken-down iron-rusted, mewed horse, to be used in the show. To-day one old negro with one old horse in rear and good carriage appeared at the Cascades. The latter admits having hit Bailey with a brick or stone, but claims that it was done in self-defense.

NOTICE DENIED.

El Reno, Ok., April 21.—Capt. Woodson and Gov. Seay were asked last night whether the reported shooting yesterday of eight boomers and the reported fight in County C between the Kansans and Texans. Capt. Woodson denied explicitly the report of the shooting of the boomers and both the Captain and Gov. Seay denied the fight. The fight in County C was untrue. The Captain was a troop of cavalry at County C, and had a few men who were engaged in a fight with a few men who were under orders to kill them. The latter were not only natives of the country, but all serious casualties. Several minor casualties have been reported, but all serious casualties have been reported, he said, but nothing of a fight in County C.

NATIVE OF HINDOSTAN NATURALIZED.

A native of Hindostan was naturalized in the Criminal Court yesterday, and one of the officers of the court said that the gentleman was the only native of that country ever made an American citizen in St. Louis. The new citizen is Kenneth G. B. Bellairs, a newspaper reporter, son of Capt. Bellairs, who is an Englishman. He came to this country when a boy and was made a citizen yesterday on one set of papers.

ENTERTAINMENT AT ST. LEO'S.

An Easter musical and golf will be given by the members of the Leo Club, which is under the direction of Miss Vernon O'Brien, in the unfinished part of St. Leo's Church on Tuesday, third and Mulholland streets to-morrow evening. An excellent programme has been prepared and an enjoyable evening is expected.

Piano Movers Injured.

Jim Ionah and Frank Barry, piano movers were seriously injured yesterday in carrying a piano from the second to the first floor of No. 1517 North Eleventh street. Three of Ionah's ribs were broken and one of Bailey's big toes was badly mashed. The injured men were removed in an ambulance to their respective homes, Donahue to 2223 Benton street and Barry to 1936 Cass avenue.

THE HETHERINGTON TRIAL.

Detailed Evidence on Which the Shooting Was Justified.

VANCOUVER, British Columbia, April 21.—By mail, per steamship Empress of Japan, come details of the defense submitted in the trial of Lieut. Hetherington before the United States Consular Court in Yokohama, but the case had not been concluded at the date of the steamer's sailing. Mr. Tison, for the accused, on March 21 made a presentation of facts and produced numerous witnesses. He said evidence would be produced to show the relations between Robinson, the murdered man, and Mrs. Hetherington, his dishonorable conduct and the justification Lieut. Hetherington had in taking stringent measures to protect the honor of his family; also that the honor of his wife of the deceased's conduct that the act was unpredictable. Evidence was presented to show that Mrs. Hetherington was introduced to Capt. Gamble in October last, in Grand Hotel, Yokohama previous to her being married to Hetherington. Her husband, however, had been married to another woman. Notes had passed through hotel messengers from Mrs. Hetherington to Robinson in November, but there was no secret correspondence between them. Hetherington, however, had learned of Robinson's conduct towards his wife in his absence, and had written to him. Hetherington, in a letter, asked his wife to take charge of his child, as he considered his wife no proper person for a nurse.

The accused later in the day told Mrs. Bartlett he had agreed to live with his wife the same as ever, but he was satisfied with his wife, but did not know what he would have to take the consequences. Bartlett went to see Robinson to advise him to leave the country, but he had not done so. Robinson, he said, was going to leave on Jan. 19, and had made arrangements to sell out on Mrs. Hetherington's account. Bartlett said he would be there until Mrs. Hetherington would be there.

Commander Bartlett gave the following account of the ensuing conversation: "I asked Robinson to explain his intentions to and persecution of a married woman, and why he was leaving the country. BIGUE Weather forecast for thirty-six hours, beginning at 8 a.m. to-day; frosty to-night; frosty Friday; cold to-night; rain Saturday; cold to-night; rain Saturday.

The storm which has been central since Saturday in the district southwest of Missouri has at last moved northward, and is this morning in Northern Indiana. Its movements during the past five days have been very unusual, causing unusually heavy and long continued rains in the lower Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio Valley. Yesterday the Arkansas, White, Mississippi, Illinois and the Ohio Valley were very heavy, the heaviest reported being Elkhorn, 28 inches in twenty-four hours; Memphis, 2.64; Little Rock, 2.50; Nashville, 1.74; Louisville, 1.62; Cincinnati, 1.28; LaCrosse, 1.16. The Mississippi River from Cairo southward is already above the danger line, and the heavy rainfall continues to increase in intensity in this section. At St. Louis the river will not pass the twenty-seven-foot crest, although the heavy rains and snows in the Upper Missouri will prevent any rapid decline. The conditions are favorable for clearing weather in this vicinity to-night.

Weather forecast for thirty-six hours, beginning at 8 a.m. to-day, for St. Louis: Cloudy, with probable occasional light showers to-day; clearing to-night; fair Friday; slightly colder to-night; nearly stationary temperature Friday.

The calculation of the delegates of the Noonan-Dalton combine is the Noonan dollar.

CANDIDATE WM. J. STONE seems to have a pretty clear idea of the situation in St. Louis.

"FARMER" DALTON is likely to find that most of the political crop he is cultivating in this town is cheat.

ALL other Democrats against the worst elements in the party about describes the opposition to the Noonan gang.

EDWARD HARRISON was endorsed by the Pennsylvania Republican Convention yesterday. He was ex-Treasurer QUAY.

If DALTON wins through his combine with the Noonan gang he will be a real farmer—of State patronage for political profits.

The Democrats of Indiana are willing to admit that ex-Gov. GRAY is their second choice. This seems to be about all of the endorsement that any of the favorite sons can get this year.

SENATOR HILL voted on the Kyle amendment to the Arizona funding bill, which was supposed to have some bearing on the silver question. But the Senator's views on silver are still the subject of speculation.

FREE sugar is very popular with Republican newspapers. By and by when they learn their next lesson they will advocate free wool and free salt. Even a Republican editor can learn something from experience.

DICKERING DALTON's denial that he has made any bargains with SWIFT and NOONAN may be literally true. The combined railroad attorneys who are grooming and running him are doubtless making his bargains for him.

The SUNDAY Post-DISPATCH accepts advertising on a distinct and unequivocal guarantee that its circulation in the City of St. Louis and suburbs is more than double that of the "Republican" and larger than any other Sunday newspaper.

MAYOR NOONAN's farmer decoy is said to be in an unpleasant frame of mind over the situation in this city. He has cause to be. There never was a candidate so badly treated and he would be justified in calling himself out and giving himself a vigorous kicking.

The organ of the railroad lobby's Noonan-Dalton-Swift-Farmer-Hoodlum combine admits that it "has, on occasion and at their urgent solicitation, accepted articles written by corporation attorneys in the interest of their clients," but denies that Contractor SWIFT writes, revises or edits its articles about the local contests. This denial, fairly interpreted, seems to mean that the railroad attorneys who are running Col. SWIFT and the politics of the Republic have more important work for him to do than editing their organ. They have procured cheaper talent for their newspaper service.

OUTSIDE INTERFERENCE.

A paper whose editor on the promise of a seat in the Chicago Convention has entered the service of the Noonan-Dalton combine, organized by Railroad Attorney PHELPS of Carthage and his Jefferson City railroad lobby, has the assurance to deprecate "outside interference in St. Louis Democratic primaries."

The Noonan-Dalton movement is notorious, the creation of such outside interference, the tool of a combine of railroad corporations intent upon stealing city, State and Supreme Court from the people, and obtaining the command of the State militia and city police by playing upon labor unions and farmers the most audacious fraud ever attempted in our politics.

The active managers of this political "green goods" game, here and throughout the State, are the attorneys and political agents of the Missouri Pacific system, the Wabash, the Frisco and the Burlington. A certain Ralls County attorney of no political note in the State, who had posed as a "farmer" statesman in the Legislature, and there commended himself to PHELPS, CARROLL, PRIEST, KENNA, DAWES and other political chiefs of the railroad lobby as an available tool, has been made their candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. They have set out to buy the St. Louis delegation for him.

THE PROPOSAL to appropriate $100,000 out of the public funds to help along the G. A. picnic in Washington is one of the most impudent ever made by half-draft adventurers. Patriotism, however, according to these gentlemen, is not a sentiment—it is an investment.

of railroad money, railroad attorneys and "push" politicians is tendered to a "farmer candidate."

THE Washington Post makes a flat charge that the Senator guilty of betraying the executive secrets voted to depose Secretary YOUNG and put a stigma of disonor upon him. Mr. YOUNG owes it to the country as well as to himself to expose the tricks of these men. A few expulsions from the United States Senate would raise its character.

ADVICES from Venezuela indicate the coming fall of the ruling boss and the elevation of his rival, South American republics seem to exist for the sole purpose of exercising the active spirit of epauletted ruffians who play at politics. The people do not seem to realize that they are being imposed upon.

EX-CONGRESSMAN STONE says he wants the votes of St. Louis delegates, but he does not want them badly enough to enter into a deal with a spoils faction to get them. Mr. STONE's position is dignified and honorable and is the only one becoming in a gubernatorial candidate.

A Lesson From Dahomey.

From the New York World.

There may not be any truth in the legend which credits the King of Dahomey with having 800 concubines and $100,000,000 and buried it in the royal subterranean treasury at Abomey, but the story is not improbable in itself and is believed by those who are in the best position to know.

If it is true, it shows that the African potentates of Dahomey are much more intelligent financiers and are better qualified to rule a country than the people who have had charge of the Treasury of the United States for the past three years.

Instead of spending less than the national income and accumulating a coin reserve our Republican financiers, with the assistance of a Billion Dollar Congress, have disposed of a surplus which they found in the Treasury, and have moved the melancholy Hoar to admit that the Treasury is really bankrupt.

It is indeed humiliating to think that the finances of the United States are not as well managed as those of Dahomey.

Weddings and Other Events of the Social Season.

HOW THE VISITING MILITARY SURGEONS ARE BEING ENTERTAINED.

The Concert to Be Given This Evening for the Benefit of the Memorial Home and Children's Free Hospital—Social Functions Being Resumed—Doings in the World of Fashion.

The military surgeons who are visiting the city have been the recipients of numerous social attentions. On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. George Allen gave a handsome dinner party to a small company of them, and Dr. Bernays of Laclede avenue near Grand gave a very handsome reception to the visiting surgeons, at which he was assisted by his sister.

Among the Easter weddings will be that of one of St. Louis' young physicians, Dr. G. H. Thompson, son of Judge Seymour D. Thompson of the South Side. The groom-expectant was educated abroad and there he met his fate in the person of Miss Adelaide P. Gerhard of Leipzig, an accomplished and beautiful girl, whose father was formerly a resident of St. Louis. The wedding will be simple and well known here. The fair bride, however, is a native of Germany. Though she has never before been to America, she speaks the most fluent English. She is expected to arrive this week, and Dr. Thompson has gone East to meet her at Jersey City.

The concert to be given this evening for the benefit of the Memorial Home and Children's Free Hospital—Social Functions Being Resumed—Doings in the World of Fashion.

One of the prettiest of the numerous Easter Weddings will be celebrated yesterday evening at the home of Miss Elizabeth B. Stephenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Stephenson, to Mr. James D. Anderson of Texas. It was a quiet family affair, celebrated by Rev. Dr. Holland of St. George's Episcopal Church in the presence of the relatives of the bridegroom.

The Landwehr family residence on Lucas avenue, with its three parlors en suite, was lavishly decked with palms and Easter lilies, the central room arranged especially for a pretty tableau effect, for when the portieres were drawn aside, the bridal party with the family group, about a呈现 a beautiful picture. The bride, a little beauty of the petite blonde type, wore a lovely wedding gown of white faille Francois, with long princess train, the bodice and front elaborately trimmed with peau passante. Over it fell the broad sash of the bride, which was tied in a knot at her hair, and in her hand she carried a bunch of bridal roses fringed with lilles of the valley sheathed in their own dark foliage. The only ornaments were the diamonds presented by the groom.

Her sisters, who served as bridesmaids, wore charming gowns, which gave the needed bit of color to the picture. Miss Stephenson was gowned in pink crepe, trimmed in jet, and Miss Hattie Stephenson wore a delicate lavender chiffon and silk, and carried Nestorites roses; Miss Hendricks, a cousin of the bride, from Virginia, wore a white buckram dress and carried La France roses, while the bride's little sister, Rebecca Stephenson wore a simple pretty frock of white muslin. Mrs. Stephenson, the mother of the bride, wore a blue and white silk with thread lace and diamonds, and Mrs. T. H. Claggett, the bride's aunt from Virginia, wore black mouseline de soleil and carried a bouquet of violets. All the members of the party were all in full dress. Lieut. Horn, U. S. A., served as best man, and Mr. M. M. Miller, the bride's cousin from Philadelphia, was the recipient of innumerable floral tributes from friends and admirers.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Claggett, the bride's cousin from Philadelphia, was also one of the attendants. After the ceremony and the reception, the wedding party, which followed, the bride changed her robe for a stylish coating gown and left with her husband for their new home in the southern part of the city. They were surrounded by numerous beautiful and costly presents in silver, glass, china and bric-a-brac.

Last evening the bride's parents celebrated his 55th anniversary at his elegant home, 3701 North Ninth street. He was the recipient of innumerable floral tributes from friends and admirers.
